The FCC Group has presented the ninth edition of its award against gender-based violence, granted this year to RTVE’s Objetivo Igualdad programme in recognition of its outstanding work raising awareness and informing the public in support of equality between women and men, and its contribution to building a fairer, more equal society free from violence against women.

The award was presented at an event organised by FCC to mark the International Day for the Elimination of Violence against Women, which the company commemorates every 25 November to highlight its commitment to preventing gender-based violence, raising awareness and supporting women who experience it.

Lourdes Jiménez Maillo, head of Equality at FCC Construcción, presented the award to Talia Martínez de Marañón and Vicky Bolaños, co-directors of Objetivo Igualdad, and Ebbaba Mahmud, the programme's presenter, who accepted it on behalf of the entire team.

The award also coincides with a very special moment for RTVE: its 70th anniversary. Seven decades alongside society, telling its story and witnessing the progress made together towards equality.

With this award, FCC reaffirms its commitment to equality and the elimination of all forms of violence against women. The company will continue to promote awareness campaigns and collaborate with institutions and associations to ensure that education and awareness reach all of society. Only by joining forces can progress be made towards a society free from violence.
